LONDON AT LENAUM,

M A U B K T H:

Lyreum 27th February, 1858.

Macbeth was preduced at this theatre, Mr. Dillon undertaking, for the first time in London, the character of the guilty here, and Miss Helen Fauuti that of his ambitions wife. Mr. Dillon's Macbeth spears to us the best performance he has yet given in London. It is remarkably fresh and original; it is, morbover, impulsive, and leans in no degree on theastrical conventions. In the first place the actor represents the brew Socioliman of the post, whose nobility of disposition is the theme of general admiration in the earlier somes, and not the hesitating coward of the beards who trembles at every step of his progress. Pais urges on the valiant Thane to commit, for a political motive, a crime at which his moral nature revolts. The necessity to which he is subject makes him writhe with emore, and reluctant to set. The crime once committed, the first rebound is fearful; but, that once surmounted, his sole care is for the security of himself and his power, and to this he sacrifices victim after victim, till the land groans with his tyranny. Throughout, a superstitious frame of mind colours his conduct and tinges his thoughts with the hous of imaginative sentiment. Thus regarded, the character abounds in variety and phases of emotion, which are played off in contrast with similar changes of feeting in Lady Macbeth—one rises and the other sinks, but the final triumph is given to Macbeth, who, when he finds his own can be a subject with the porter of the performance. Mr. Dillon may, therefore, be congratulated on having achieved a signal success in this new Shakesperian assumption.

PLECTORS of CENTRAL CUMBERLAND, the following are some of the reasons why you should NOT vote for Mr. ATRINSON.

Liver green and comparison of the same sealous of the person was a proposed divisions are compared to your interest and control the wind being sealed with simple places of the person unfortunate position in require and divisions he only was present 19 consequently be was assent 346 times. In his green, and is should think no boundardly he was becaused by the could be be wised on the Assendyly be sould not be missions and policy and sittle after the return of the control of the meetings since the with of lections of Cumberland is shown of the meeting since the with of lections of Cumberland is the only strend 52. no that our of 448 meetings and divisions he only was present 19 consequently the was a capture of the Milliand with himself

The poll, and return Macphersen.

CENTRAL CUMBERLAND.—Brother Biestors.—

I should be one of the last men in the world to treat unkindly the unfortunate. But there should be propriety in mea's actions. No man should covet a seat in Farliament who is not their oughly independent. An insolvent man cannot be independent. His motive in attempting to get into the Assembly, or in permitting his friends to put him there, is a very questionable proceeding. Mr. Atkinson has not announced himself's candidate, but he has allowed his friends to no minute him, and to hold unselings on his behalf. Is this to be tolorated? If one member can take his seat, being incolvent, so can the 72 members! And then what a strange Parliament we should have! Our laws—our legislative and our executive laws and administration conducted by men who are insolvent!

Men of Cumberland, be up and at work! If you do not approve of Marpherson, bring for ward a better man. But let it not be said that the Metropolitan County could only return an insolvent!

Son's affairs.

I MPORTANT TO STOCK FARMERS.—By Royal I Letters Patent.—M BOUGALL'S NON-POISON-OUS SHEEP AND LAMB DIPPING COMPOSITION, for the Preventien and Cure of Scab in Sheep.—Dipping contain mineral poisons and strong sikalies, which frequently cause the most diseatrons socidents, and constantly act detrimentally on the flock.

The arrents and mercury they contain are a continual source of danger, both to the animals and the persons who apply the poisonous composition. Rulinous lossess are incurred when the sheep do not happen to be in a condition to resist the action of the poison, or the operator sufficiently skillful in taking the needful precaution. In some recent cases hundreds of valuable sheep have died within a few days after being dipped in these poisonous baths.

The strong sikali by which the arsentois rendered soluble is also a very objectionable application; it combines with and destroys the oleaginous covering, or "yolk," as it is called, with which nature has furnished the wood, thus at once injuring the fleece and lowering the health of the sheep.

In it is soluble in water, and easy of application.

11.—It can be used without the slightest danger on abrep and inmbe of any age. It will not injure the skin or garments of the person applying it.

jurd to a sint or garments of the person applying it.

111.—14 possesses remarkable healing and antiseptic properties, and prevents contagion from skin diseases.

1V.—14 improves the appearance, and increases the growth of the wool.

V.—14 effectually destroys ticks, lice, and other vermin; after its application the sheep are enabled to feed with comfort, and will consequently improve more rapidly in condition.

VI.—14 prevents the attacks of the masged fly.

The composition is equally adapted for applying to s and lambs by DIPPING, POURING AND SMEARING.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.
DIPPING.
For Fifty Sheep.
Take 10 lbs. of the composition, and dissolve it by boiling for two or three minutes in two gallons of water, stirring it all the time, after which add forty-eight gallons of cold, or (if convenient) tepid water, stirring the whole together.

Of congestion.

The dipping may then be commenced in the usual way, care being taken that every part is immersed, and that the sheep are not suffocuted. Each sheep should be kept in the bath a full minute.

our being taxen that every part is immersed, and that the sheep are not suffocuted. Each sheep should be kept in the bath a full minute.

On removing each sheep from the bath, allow it to remain on the drainer so long as liquid runs off the wood.

When a number exceeding fifty are to be dipped, the bath is to be replenished after each twenty-five sheep with 5 lbs. of the composition belied in one gallon of water, to which twenty-four callons of oold or tepid water are to be added.

The proportions are one pound of composition to five gallons of water for five sheep.

Parties assisting a dipping may handle the sheep in the bath with perfectly safety, as this bath will not injust either their skin or their dothes. There need he no hesitation in dipping sheep in the bath immediately after shearing, as its effects on wounds from shear-marking will be to heal rather than to irritate, and the dangerous socidents earling from the absorption of arressis by raw surfaces cannot happen from the use of this bath. The shows is an ordinary bath. If the sooth is very virulent, 15 lbs. of the composition, instead of 10 lbs., may be used, and a little of the composition rubbed on disassed parts before dipping.

POURING.

Por Fifty Sheep.

Dissolve 5 lbs. of the composition by boiling it for two or three minutes in 24 gallons of water, and add ton gallons of cold or topid water, which is pound on to the sheep in the usual way.

of cost or sopin water, which is poured on to the sheep in the usual way.

SALVING OR SMEARING.

The composition is of the proper consistence for use, and requires no preparation.

The wool is to be opened, and the composition applied in the neual way. Five cunoes is considered a fair applier-tion. No injury can occur to the sheep by using it the access.

N.B.—The above direction being for English sheep, the quantity may be reduced for Australian abosp.

FOR HORSES AND CATTLE. It is invaluable as a salve for sorce and wounds; it alians sruption, destroys lice, has great healing powers, and protects the sore from files and insects. It is admirably adapted to protect horses and cattle from files whiles at partire.

100. May v. LONG.

This was an ection brought to recover £107 10s. for forty three weeks maintenance by plaintiff of defendant's wife. The defence was, substantially, that plaintiff had hepf Mrs. Long without any need that he shudt do so, because she had persistently, and without good cause, refused to go back to her husband, who was willing to take he was the son the husband, who was willing to take he was the son in-law of Mrs. Long, having married her daughter by a former marriage. The defendant and had married his present wife in the year 1530. Shapehal was then a widow, with children, her name being Eliasheth Wilson. From thence until October, 1861, they had lived together. At that time, however, according to the plaintiff and to Mrs. Long herself, she was turned out of doors. The plaintiff sower that he had seen her as turned out at a time when she was suffering from a spretched and the state of the daughter? Mrs. Long swere the same thing. She slee swore that the defendant had illused her to such an extent that she was a straid to live with him. She spoke of several instances where he had used and interest the such as a straid to live with him. She spoke of several instances where he had once struck her with a mallet on the head. But this, she said, was cleven years ago. She further declared that he had once struck her with his fat. It was impossible to get out of her when this occurred. Her evidence as to daise was very confused, and prior to this she had even swern that he had noted the struck her with his fat. It was impossible to get out of her with a substantial that he had refused to give up; also that she had refused to go and live with defendant at his elastroation, and this had occurred several months before the separation. But it was plain that there had been vice the substant of the substant she had refused to give up; also that she had refused to go and live with defendant and with the substant she had refused to give them up. AN INTERESTING SURGICAL CASE —The Alfas of March contains, smongst other interesting matter, a paper by G. G. Tyrrell, on the treatment of a case of gunshot wound of the orbit, followed by loss of vision. The patient, Owen Kirnan, a muccular man, was shot in Newada courty, on the 22nd of September last. He was standing on a waggan close to his assailant when the pistul was discharged. The ball entered the head near the left ear. The wound was circular, with ragged fiveried edges, and through it protruded a small muccle with tendon attached. On introducing a probe into the wound, the molar bone was found much comminuted, and the fragments chiefly embedded in the tempora fossa. Excelly in front of the ear, externally, could be felt a hard angular substance, which the surgeon proceeded to cui down upon, as it could not be reached through the wound. The incision exposed a large piece of lone, irregular in shape and surface. On removing the wound has all basied, sye it ching normal, and vision partially restored. H rence was entirely clear and free from cloud or mist. The fact of the descent of mushames of this character appears to be well authenticated."

UTAH.

The resident correspondent of the Alita California, writes as follows on the 6th of March, from Salt Lake City. He anys.

A short residence in Salt Lake City soon farnishes a stranger with the most ample evidence that Ush is a country replete with interest, and probably the best school for the study of human nature that the world affords. Here the overwhelming mass are brothers and sisters by fatth, largely cemented by ties of consanguality, and interlaced like a fancy web by the interesinable relations of marriage. No inland willage—the oldest of the old world—presents more striking daily proofs of brothers, cousins, and uncles to every man spoken with, than Ulah will exhibit in a few years. Salt Lake City, though a stirring, busy, commercial city, may yet be said to parake more of the village than of the mart of trade, and the city of business. The settlements, or other cities, are numerous enough; but yet so entirely occupied with agricultural pursuits, and without the facilities to travel that induce the growth of interchanging commerces, that the people have not yet begun to realise much more than wide apart village existence. They must, therefore, have about the same information, protty near the same likes and dislikes, and quite likely be of the same mind on matters generally. I am willing to accord a great deal to faith for untiling men; but circumstances are powerful mentors.

Faith in the future is mighty with the most litlerate and the most intellectual. The people of Utah are prominently a people of faith—strongly eo, peculiarly so; but not being limited, like other professed religionists, to "hopes beyond the great will be supplied to the same faith. On faith, minds may waver; on self-preservation, there can be no division; as said a revolutionary father, "we must all hang together or we must hang separa sly." The San Francisco papers state that one of the serious obstatels in the way of the prosperity and development of the wine interest of California, lies in the searcity and high price of casks. Notwithstanding the great atundance and variety and magnificant size of the forest trees on this coast, there are none suited for wine.

A MINK of WALTH —The Gould and Curry gold and silver mines, in Washon, may be considered as amongst the richest now worked on this or any other continent. Only the ofter day, a dividend of 120,000 dollars on 1200 feet was made. This, of course, is over and above all expense, in cluding a sinking fund laid by to meet extraordinary emergencies. CHILE.

CHILE.

There is nothing of very great interest from Chile. The newspapers are discussing the subject of religious toleration. Chile has advanced but little in this idea, when the general progress of the people towards liberty is taken into consideration, and the bulk of the interior populations are much exposed to the introduction of "herotics" of any kind. All sects are allowed to worship according to their own creed, but all are more or less at the mercy of the Government, and are liable to have their privileges abridged, if the Minister for Worship and Public Instruction should happen to be a fanatic. It is new proposed to accord religious teleration not only as a privilege, but as a right.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

Ev the arrival of the steamer from Central America, at Fanama, we have intelligence of the first engagement between the Gustemals and Salvador forces, in which the former were badly beaten and several of their leading cofficers killed.

Central American correspondence of the Star and Herald furnishes the particulars of the fight.

At the date of my last advices from hence this republic was in a state of great excitament, owing to the threatened invasion of Carrera with a large body of his Gustempla forces and several divisions. A body of Salvadorsan treeps, secompanied by two parks of artillery, had been con-tions of war, and all their killed and wounded on the field Among the former, it is said, is General Saldana, Carrera's chief.

Generals Gonzales and Bracomonte, with a strong division, were, at the departure of the courier, in hot pursuit of the fugitives, who arrives at half-past seven a.m., since which all is rejoicing, the band parading the town, and the booming of cannon announcing the glorious triumph; and all are full of expectation and hope that this decisive engagement will terminate the struggle.

San Jose, C. B., February 28, 1863.

An election for Presidential electors takes place some day of this week, throughout the Republic. The most prominent candidates are Senores Jesus Jimenez, of Cartago, and A. Requivel, of San Jose.

The coffice crop is generally gathered, and turns out to be in quantity not more than two-thirds of the insual yield, the consequence is that parties who are compromised to make shipments of coffee find it difficult to purchase at paying prices. In many instances investments have been made with almost a cortainty of sustaining a loss.

Riverything is very quiet here, and it is not supposed that there will be any opposition to the Government candidate, Senor Jimenex, of Cartago, for the Presidency.

The coffee crop it is feared will not exceed 70,000 quintals; the price is higher than ever, 13 dollars in San Jose, and 16 dollars to 1504 in Punta Arenas has been paid for many considerable parcels. The amount of tonnage in the port is very much in excess of the crop. Considerable shipments go forward by the steamers.

EARTHQUAKE IN GUATEMALA.

FOUR VILLAGES DESTROYED.

The brig Sunny South, from San Jose de Guatemala, brings the following full particulars of the late sarthquake, the notice of the occurrence of which we reserved by tolegraph some days since:—

On the 19th of December, 1802, at half-past seven o'clock in the evening, a heavy earthquake was felt all along the coest of Guatemala and Salvador. It lasted, seconding to observations made at the Jecuite College, in Guatemala, two minutes. The movement was a soft one, like the rolling of a ship, but it caused considerable damages in all the villages near the coast. It is supposed that the earthquake was caused by the cruption of the volcano of Queraltenango, although the village that lies near it did not suffer very much. In Antigon, Amatilian, San Jose and Escuintla, most of the houses are in ruins, but as they are built of mud, and only about one foot in the ground, it is not astonishing. All the churches in these places are destroyed, but, of the few brick buildings, none weregreatly injured. On the road from the city of Guatemala to Salvador it was felt, but not very heavy; only old huts tumbled down, and parts of the churches. In San Jose, the ground was cracked to a considerable depth. Fortunately, it was low water at the time; if not, the only seaport of that Republic would have been destroyed.

WE have received Honolule papers to the 21st February, being two days later than our last advices. The ouly matter which we observe, of general interest, was that there had been a public meeting to open a subscription for the distressed Lamashire weavers. The movement was initiated by the British Minister, Mr. Spage, but was warmly seconded by the Bishop of Honolula; Juige Robertson, and several persons of great influence having taken part in the proceedings at the public meeting

EVENINGS AT HOME AT THE NAUTICAL CLUB.

Great Eastern's Rock—Loch Lomond Tourists—Condition of Naval Construction—The Alabama and Hatteras—Federal and Confederal Supplies—Reminiscences of Charleston, &c.

(From the Nautical Magazine for March)

HAVE any of us (asked the Chairman in opening proceedings) received any secaunt of the precise position of the rock on which the Great Eastern grounded when entering Long Island Sound. Nothing like it appears in the American survey? The N. E. rips are mentioned, which show nothing. But a single bearing and distance of Montauk Lighthouse when the Great Eastern was on shore, would be all that is wanted. The Chairman's remarks elicited notaing but a hope that same information for his own sake would have been sent to the Nautical by the commander of the big ship.

In the way of charts, observed the Commodore, he was gird to see those of the British Admiraity leading the way of all other Governments both in the number and importance of their publications, but he hoped never to see them printed on worse paper than at present. Not only are foreign shores cared for, but even those of our inland lakes, and the northern tourist may now enjoy his voyage even through Loch Lomond free from the sunken dangers with which it is infested, for the Government survey of this most interesting of Scottih lakes is published, wherein all sunken rocks, shoals, and banks, are accurately delineated. It is, moreover, stated that Robert H inter, Esq., sheriff of the counties of Dumbarton and Bute, at whose instance the survey by Captain Otter, R.N., was made, has also since the preparation of the chart, with the most praiseworthy liberality subscribed himself, and has induced Sir James Colunboun, of Luss; Mr. Smollet of Bonhill; Mr. Brown, of Balloch; Mr. A. Orr Ewen, of Levenbank, the Dumbartonshire and Elinburgh and Glasgow Railways, and the Leth Lomond Steambost Company's manager, have no hill, under the superintendence of Mr. Young the Lech Lomond Steambost Company's manager, have now stood the severe gales of this winter in the most satisfactory manner; and as each of the captains of the steamers has been furnished with a copy of the chart showing all their bearings, configurations, and colours, the public may now consider the navigation of the lake as quite free from danger.

Much is expected, continued the Chairman, from the leading maritime power of Europe, and certainly the most sanguine expectations of England's contribution to the knowledge of hydrography have been satisfied. Charts are essential to a navy, and England must therefore have both.

At the present moment her position in this respect

Charts are essential to a may, and England must therefore have both.

At the present moment her position in this respect is unprecedented. The question between iron and wood may be looked on as settled, each taking that portion of our naval construction to which it is best adapted,—keeping in mind the qualities required by a ship of war. Our wooden walls must become iron, and we had begun in earnest with the rudiments of the art of applying these materials with the best effect, and some years will be required to bring the art to a normal condition of perfection. Our iron plated ships are well speken of,—their behaviour at sea is as good as a first trial could be expected to give us, for we must be going on improving one after another as they are produced. Then the turrets of Captain Coles, copied by the Americans in their Monitor, and now in their Montauk, which is said to have resisted shore tatteries marvellously, and come off from an engagement with them merely losing her "amoke stack." The application of these turrets of Captain Coles to seagoing ships has yet to be shown, for at present they seem to be either destined for guards costas or to be mayigated mostly by steam.

before the word "States" was well pronounced, a broadside from the Alabama drowned the voice of the speaker. The fire was duly returned, but so well were her guns plied, so accurate the aim, that in thirteen minutes the Histerns hoisted a light in token of surrender, and hailed to say she was sinking; and in thirty-two minutes from the time the first shot was fired, she disappeared. As soon as the prisoners had been secured (they only saved what they had on), a course was shaped tor Jamaica, from whence, unless the bost which was lowered before the action commenced reached the land in safety, the Pederals will obtain the first tidings of the defeat they have sustained.

Besides landing his prisoners Captaia Semmes was anxious to complete coals and provisions and give his men, who had been cooped up on board more than five months, a run on shore; and I sm happy to say that no obstacle has been thrown in his way by the Governor.

I went on board yesterday; they were busy repairing damages; five shot had passed through the side very low down, one of these through both bows, and one only about two feet above the france-work of the propeller. Two live shells were picked up in the ceal bunkers; but, on examination, lo and behold they only contract, and it is another illustration of the terrible peculation that is sapping the very vittles of the Pederal States.

One shot struck the after part of the chimney, and was the cause of the only casualty to the crew of the Alabama.

was the cause of the only casualty to the crew of the Alabams.

The Federal loss amounted to two killed, or supposed to be killed, they went down in the vessel, and three wounded, one badly, he has been sent to the civil hospital at Ki gston.

I sppead a statement of the comparative force of the two ships, and shall only add that the Blakeley's 160-pounder was the cause of the action being brought to so speedy a termination; it was one of this gun's missiles that drove in the Hatteras' side. The chief engineer described its effects thus:—"I though the wheel was coming into the engine room!" Verily it is a most formidable weapon.

"But what of the shells of sand?" inquired the chairms.

Alas, an earnest proof of the disgraceful manner in which the Federals have been served by parties no doubt in the interest of the peculiar institution, and it should be commended to the special attention of the Federal authorities.

As to the mode of being served, said Albert, I have prepared for the Club a paper of a curious kind that shows how the Confederates have been served by their well-wishers, he might at least perhaps term them, in this country, if not partisans, and it would show with how much faith her Mejesty's proclamation had been observed on this side of the Atlantic. He did not mean to say that the Federals had not also obtained some materials contraband of war. The united is an entryl country. We had taken their cotton; and the gold which our capitalists had paid for it was returned for the contraband of war. The witer first naively saks the question,—Does anybody outside of a lunatic asylum believe that the Emperor of China is in immediate want of a fleet of war steemers? And then he adds the following startling sasortions:—which are taken from the Laidy Neses.

On the premises belonging to Mesars. Laird, of Birkenhead, in a covered shed or "annexe" to the main pard, two powerful war ateamers are in course of construction for the Emperor of China." Their burden is about 2200 tons. They are of the ram class, are partially iron-plated, and measure, say 200 feet long by thirty-six beam and eighteen deep. Their engues, now nearly ready, are ranked nominally at 300 horse-power, but each will work up to 1000, which will give them a very high rate of speed.

In the main yard of the same premises another steam ram is being built, tals of "for the Emperor of China."

Her length is about 150 feet, by twenty-eight beam, and depth from sixteen to eighteen feet. She is to be partially iron-plated, the two others in the annexe and the three are expected to be ready for sea in about two months from the present time, perhaps sooner. Ceptan Bullock, who intended for the trade between Charleston and Savannah.

Two weeks ago, a fine vessel of the same class at the Virginia was launched from Messrs. Blackwood's yard, at Port Glasgow, and common report says she is intended for "the Chinese."

Upwards of fifty steam vessels, of various descriptions, in different stages of completeness, might be enumerated in this "Chinese." category.

The slaveholders' conspiracy is largely, nay mainly, indebted for its success up to the present time to the material aid which has been extended to it by British capitalists. Two years before it broke out, their cooperation had been secured through the instrumentality of the highest diplomatic agents of the United States then in this country. Large advances were promised upon mortgages of enormous quantities of cotten, tobacco, and rice; nor was the fact concealed by the democratic party, that in the event of secession and war almost any amount of pecuniary aid would be procured from this quarter. These powerful combinations in support of the slaveholders conspiracy comprised the monetary, shipping, and mercannile interests. As much as £16,000 and even £20,009 have since been subscribed by individual members of these associations; and in one instance a sum of £5,000,000 sterling can be directly traced as the financial result of a single operation. Not many days ago lists were exhibited by a Confederate agent, in which figured the names of Manchester men of high standing for large sums which they had just recently subscribed in aid of the Confederates.

Another of these emissaries is now in this country, whose name can be furnished if neadful. He is de-

[We are obliged to emit the further remarks of the Chairman on this vast subject to make room for the following.]

He believed the following letter contained the best account that had yet been given of the action between the Alabama and Hetteras.

On the afternoon of Sunday, the 11th, the Alabama was cruising off Galveston, Texas, when she descried seven Federal men-of-war standing in for the anchorage. She followed them boildy in, but on finding she was considered "suspicious" and ordered to be examined by signals, which they made out (having the Federal books), she stood out, followed by the Hatteras. Semmes's object being to decoy her away from her consorts, he kept under said only, but with fires banked and screw triced up; but directly it was dark he furled his sails, and put his vessel under steem.

About 7 h. p.m. the Hatteras ranged up nearly alongside, stopped, lowered a bost, and hailed—"What skip is that?" to which the Alabama replied, III. B.M. ship Pettel," and inquired in her turn, "What ship is that?" The answer was,—"United States ship," but schot ship was never made out, for with materials and munitions of war are guaranteed cargees of cotton in excharge at 7 cents a pound, for the value (greatly exaggrated) of the ship and cargo. They also recive Confederate bonds to ever the smount. These vessels, chiefly steamers of light, 30, 40—at Lloyd's. If they run the blockade out and home, the anomous profits on the sale of the cuttum are an ample remuneration for the venture, and the bonds are cancelled. If they are capyured, the bonds, bearing a high rate of interest, are relanded as accurity. The option is given to the owners of selling their ships to the Confederate Government—such of them as reach their destination and da not care to risk a return vovage—and they go to form the nucleus of a navy. Thus British capitel, and it alone, furnishes the Confederacy with the means of carrying on the war.

For formed of the large number of vessels engaged, and of the vast capital risked in this contraband trade, from the fact that the Federal cruisers have captured nearly 690, chiefly British, while attempting to run the blockade, and contexted property to the amount of £8,000,000 sterling. So great, however, are the profits arising from this tradic, that it is delity increasing.

The profit exist, it is said, that this contraband traffic in arms and munitions of war is openly carried on by the aid of British capital, under the British lag, but the side of British capital, under the British lag, which all could not maintain itself. It is carried on to blockaded ports recognised as such by the British Government, and is, therefore, a violation of the Queen's proclamation of the Spth (British merchant, dishonour the na ion, negender unfriendly feelings between the Acerican and the British people, and deporative the amicable relations of their respective Government, and is, therefore, a violation of the Government, and is, therefore, a violation of the Government, and is, therefore, a violation of the Government, and is, therefore a violation of the government of a tribles of the stranger of the sion caps, and 143,300 lbs. gunptwder. This vessel succeeded in ruoning the blockade.

On the 11th November, the Justitia steamer, 615 tons, Barrough, commander; brokers, Spyer and Haywood; ebief shippers, Richardson, Ross, and Co. cleared out for Demerara. Her cargo of munitions of war comprised 10 cases abells, 400 barrels salipetre, 20,000 linen bandages, 1,000,000 cartridges, and 179,200 lbs. gunpowder. She also ran the blockade. On the 5th December, the Princess Royal steamer, 494 tons, Lawson, master, cleared out for Hulifax and Vancouver Island. Her brokers and chief shippers were Messrs. W. S. Lindsay and Co. She was laden principally with hardware, iron and steel, machinery for six propellers, and soldiers' clothing; but she also took out 60,000 pounds of gunpowder.

On the 3rd of January last, the Miriam, a new and fast steamer, sailed from London. The chief shippers of her cargo were Messrs. Spyer and Haywood. It consisted of a large quantity of army stores, 25,000 rifies, 60 tons gunpowder, 3012,000 cartridges, and 3,000,000 percussion caps. Up to within the last for days, her cleurance papers were not entered at the Custom-house. She is supposed to be a Confederate vessel.

On the same day the Peterhof, another steamer.

Custom-house. She is supposed to be a Confederate vessel.

On the same day the Peterhof, another steamer, slos called from London, laden with army stores and necessaries, and her clearance papers were not to be found entered only a few days ago. The Customs' lists teem with cases similar to those senumerased. So much for the neutrality of Eegiand, and so much for her Majesty's proclamation, and all far the benefit of seeing another Federal government established, the corner stone of which is to be slavery—and its capital, continued the Commodore, to be that port at which whea British trading vessels in former days arrived, they were subject to the degrading process of seeing part of their crews that had any nigger blood in their veins forcibly taken out of the ships, locked up until they were ready for sailing, and then returned on board. Thus, in addition to the insulting nature of the deed itse f, they lost the services of those men!

And had they no redress? asked the chairman.

And had they no redires? asked the chairman.

None, returned the commodore. When the degrading measure was complained of in the House of Commons, the snawer was, it was the "costom," and knowing it they must put up with it when they gothere!

knowing it they must put up with it when they go there!

A custom, grand custom like his Majesty's of Dahoma—not to be dispensed with. But they say that the commodere on the station is gone to his Majesty perhaps to feel his pulse on that subject.

So much for the Slave Emporium of the Western world as it would be with Bri is assistance, said the chairman. Let us turn to the assistance of another kind sent to our unfortunate Lancashire op ratives from the land of freedom. The Grorge Griswold has arrived at Liverpool, and has been received as she should be. He had not heard of the distribution of the good things brought by her, but he doubted not they would be disposed of properly. And he heard that another ship load was on its way from the same part of the world.

But in reference to the contrast between these matters, so much to the discredit of our country, observed Albert, he was of opinion that our part had been taken by a few adventurers whose ill success in the cause of alsavery would be matter for rejoicing among the people of the country—for they had spoken out on this subject, and that pretty plainly. And as they were then at Liverpool, he would point to the chairman's address of a large meeting that had taken place there since the arrival of the George Griswold.

A QUESTION OF HONOUR -If a minister of any Church is convinced that is teaching is erroneous and unacriptural, he is bound, as an honest man, while calling for a reformation of doctrine, to do so plainly and avowedly, and in the meantime to forego his monetarious in that Church, and renounce the emoluments of its offices. TO CORRESPONDENTS We gave insertion by momentary forgetfulness to a letter from "A True Believer," referring to the account of the creation of man. Since then we have been fuvoured by several able letters on the same subject. We give no opinion on the value of such discussions, but are obliged to remember that a rigorous rule binds us to refuse all letters on subjects having a relation to polemics; and limit our columns to secular uses, save as matters of news.

OTICE.—Advartisements intended for publication in Monday's issue of this journal must be left at the office before II p.m. on SATURDAY. No advertisements will be received on Sunday.

The Sponey Morning Berald.

TUESDAY, JUNE 2, 1863.

THE CRIEF JUSTICE, in giving judgment in a case recently before the Court, expressed an opinion that free selectors had not acquired such a right in the soil as to entitle them to such a right in the soil as to entitle them to impound cattle which might stray upon their land. This opinion he gave, not with a view to impeach the principle of the Land Law, or to discuss its political bearings, but to warn the country that it was necessary to look carefully to the provisions of the Act, and to see whether they were such as would enable the free selectors to possess all those advantages which it was intended by the framers of that measure to confer. Such an intimation, surely, was humane as well as politic. It was right that the bearing of the Act on all the interests involved should be thoroughly comprehended before large interests were involved. A good Judge claims discretion in the inter-pretation of law. He is bound to give its proper import, whatever may be the consequence of a past misconception. Could anything be more deplorable than that the law should be interpreted by Judges in harmony with personal interests or in accordance with the views of the Government of the day? It is not their place the law itself. Mr. ROBERTSON, for example, magines that the Land Act is his Act, and that he is bound to defend all its clauses as a true interpretation of his policy. He thinks that any other sense than he contemplated is making an attack upon his dignity as a lawgiver, and upon the Legislature that he imagines adopted his views. Though, for convenience, an Act is sometimes called after the name of the person by whom the principal framework is constructed, we have yellolers that whom a law is spaced it remains to learn that when a law is enacted it remain to learn that when a law is enacted it remains the property of the person who introduced the till. It is absurd to look at the intentions or purposes of the framer send it is presumptuous on his part to pretend to enforce upon the Judges a meaning which the Act does not express, because he blundered in the framing of the measure or because he endersoused to measure, or because he endervoured to dictory in itself. We do not pretend to say whether the Judge is right or wrong. This would be as pre-sumptuous in us as in Mr. ROBERTSON, but not more so. We, however, should have this excuse, that we are not officially bound to support any branch of Government. From our position we have a right, in such terms of respect as are due to the Judges, to give our views upon the opinions they express, however ridiculous it might be to do so without producing authorities outside our own office. But here, a Minister of the Crown has pleased to rate the Judge for his opinion, as if he were an enemy to the country; as if he had travelled beyond his proper functions—as if, in short, in giving intimation of the danger just before Parliament assembles, he had really usurped the functions of the Legislature! If we are not in a condition to pronounce ar opinion upon the views of Sir ALFRED FTEPHEN, we are at least to assert that such combine by law what is absolutely contrain imations have been frequently given by Judges. They have stated their views of the possible operation of the law upon points in reference to which they have not been called to decide judicially. It has been a matter of pub-lic policy that they should throw out general hints of caution where they have strong impres sions, although the case may not admit of their pronouncing a final judgment. They put the people and the Government upon their guard, and save them from those disgraceful acts of power which break down bargains and deprive in ividuals of their legal right in order to conform the law to some policy unsupported by the law. Judge in the interpretation of an Act of Parlisnent. If, however, he thought the Judge in erier, and that it was within his province to tell world so, was it not inconsistent with his postion to use language which would tend so far the the administration of justice? Is it talk to a promiscuous assembly so as to produce ungovernable laughter and derisive cheers-to speak of the highest administrative functionary the country, holding his office independently be the of the popular will and of the Crown itself as if he were a policeman who had exceeded his duty? Was it proper that such language should be applied to the man who for nearly a a quarter of a century has adorned the seat of justice? We are not at all unacquainted justice? We are not at all unacquainted with the weaker side of a character which in its weakers side is amiable and respectable; but taken "for all in all" there is not to be found on the colonial Bench throughout these colonies a man superior to his ALFRED STEPHEN in legal knowledge, in judicial impartiality—in all those qualities which adorn public character, or claim the homage of the people. This is at all events the opinion of every man who is interested in the permanent welfare of the community, and is not at habitual loggerheads with the law is not at habitual loggerheads with the law itself. It is extremely easy for any man by a few commonplaces and jokes to excite laughter in a promiscuous assembly. The most venerable and excellent of men have been jeered by a crowd. It is not even im-possible for those who are most indignant at outrage when it invests itself in grimaces and comicality to be surprised into a laugh, however shocked they may be. It is not a great achievement, therefore, even if we are to take in "cheere," and "laughter," "long rounds of cheering," as being a true representation of the state of things when Mr. ROBERTSON delivered his insulting speech against the CHIEF JUSTICE of our Supreme against the CHIEF JUSTICE of our Supreme Court. It is what might be done by any reckless man, who, having the ear of the more boisterous members of the community, would address them in terms so flattering as to make them the judges of the Judge—the censors of the Bench. It is commonly reported, that the Judges as body have called the attention of the Govern ment to this proceeding of one of its members. It is said that they have represented such dis plays as calculated to destroy the legitimate in fluence of our Courts of Justice, and to excite a contempt on the part of the populace for those who administer it. We do not know what reply will be given to this remonstrance. likely that the Judges may be told that they are fair objects of ridicule, and that a Minister of the Crown has the power and the right to exhibit them to the amusement of his friends. But whom would such an answer degrade? Not the Judges themselves. They only performed a duty which they owed to their office in calling the attention of the Government to an outrage probably never paralleled among Ministers

The Judges have discharged their conscience and performed their duty, just as a Judge of the Supreme Court of America performed his when he issued his attachment against a General who refused to obey an order, and when its execution was resisted by force. The Judge communicated these facts to the Government, and left to them the reproach of having broken down the barriers of law, and permitted the Bench to be exposed to the contempt of the people. No one imagines that a Judge can protect himself. He may be daily insulted by the Press-he may be " shown up" by a Minister of the Crown, and his un-availing protest may be met with derisive cheers; but it is not the Judges who will suffer, except sa all good men must suffer in their humiliation—it is the people who will suffer, in the destruction of that hereditary respect which is due to the Bench, and which in this instance is sustained by the age, the personal character, the learning, and the long services of the Judge specially marked out as the object of reproach. For our part we do not know anything that could be more infamous than the toleration of habitual ridicule of the men to whom we entrust the protection of our lives and liberties, unless it were the appointment of a Judge whose previous history and general character would make him the mean and miserable tool of the vanity, the ambition, or the corruption of a Minister. We would the policy of the law; and it is at their peril that they permit it to be warped and wrenched in order to harmonise with the intention of certain individuals, but not in harmony with public should not become cogniss to the views of his colleagues, Mr. ROBERTSON will be given to understand that he must mpose some restraint upon the licens; of his las guage unless he is prepared to abandon h post as a Minister of the Crown.

THE American news published yesterday brings down the intelligence to a date about a fortnight later than that received by the last overland mail, leaving us only a fortnight's further news to receive when the next mail arrives. There is nothing in the intelligence to indicate that any very decisive movements were on the eve of any very decisive movements were on the eve of seccomplishment. On the contrary, the talk is still rather of preparations than of action. The policy in favour at Washington is evidently to strike three great blows, as nearly as possible simultaneously. There has been a want of this simultaneity hitherto, and the consequence has been that the receles are consequence has been that the rebels have contrived, by prempittude of action, to neutralise their inferiority of numbers. Having a sufficient command of railroad transit, and having the great military advantage of fighting on interior lines, they have been enabled to move their troops from point to point, and concentrate them successively at the places where they were attacked. It is evidently in contemplation to denrive them as vidently in contemplation to deprive them as much as possible of this advantage for the future. Without abandoning any of the posts which have been captured, and which are still garrisoned, the Federals have been massing their forces at three points. One army threatens Vicksburg; a second, under ROSENGRANS, is in the heart of Tennessee; and the third, under HOONER, is still waiting the conor that has advanced victoriously. The other two have already once that has advanced victoriously. The other two have already once met with a repulse. But reinforced and reorganised, it is thought that if they advanced contemporaneously, and delivered three heavy and well directed blows, they would strain the resources of the Confederacy to the utmost; and if victories were not won at all three points, they might be at one or two and an advance anywhere with a large and well appointed force, would be as encouraging to the North as it would be discourag-ing to the South. But is is always to the North.

But is is any,
difficult to carry out concerted operations,
and this is especially the case when the armies and this is especially the case when the armies are hundreds of miles apart from one another. When one is ready to move, another has preparations still to make. After the failures that have slready been experienced, the Government of the North is naturally anxious to make such ad quate preparations this time that failure shall be almost impossible. But then these prepara-tions cause delay, and that at a juncture when time is especially precious.

A prehminary to the attack on Vicksburg is the reduction of Port Hudson, lower down the reduction of Port Hudson, lower down the river. This place has not yet been taken, but it has been passed. The short account given of this operation reads, Lowever, on the whole rather favourably for the Confederates, for it shows how formidable the battery is, and what an obstruction it forms to operations against Vicksburg from the south. It seems that the attack was intended to have been a combined movement by land and river. For some unexplained reason, however, General Banks was not ready with his land force, and Commodore FARRAGUT, in forcing his way up the river, received the undivided attentions of the garrison. So severe was the fire that only two of his vessels successfully ran the capable. gauntlet. The Richmond had her machinery smaged, and was obliged to fall back. Genesse had her paddlewheel destroyed. The Genesse had her paddlewheel destroyed. The Monongabela and Kincko were also so much cut up as to be obliged to turn round. The Mississpip grounded, and was destroyed to prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy. So that five out of the seven vessels were seriously injured and one of them destroyed. This shows that though iron plated vessels may successfully run past batteries, none but they can do so, and it is a critical feat even for them. Nothing much has been gained by Commodore FARRAGUT'S exploit, except the re-capture of the iron-clad Indianola, which the Confederates had very nearly repaired, and would soon have brought into action. This achievement may be held to balance the loss of the Mississippi. What the Federals want to do, however, is to clear away the fortifications of Fort Hudson altogether. As ong as it remains unreduced no transports can pure by, and therefore no army can be brought up the river from New Orleans, to sit down on the south side of Vicksburg, nor could supplies forwarded by that route. General SUMNER, who conducted the pre-vious attack upon Vicksburg, has died of congestion of the lungs. To whem the command of the army falls is not stated. Probably to M'CLERNAND, who has been impatiently waiting and besecching for it for some time past. Whoever gets the command will undoubtedly have a hard task before him. for the place has been now so regularly fortified as to be unspproachable on the land side except by a regular siege.

1. OSENCBANZ, in Tennessee, has not advanced beyond the point he had previously reached. He has secured himself against the risks of an attack in front, and the Confederates seem principally anxious to manouvre in his rear so cut off his land communications. dependent for his supplies partly on a railroad and partly on a river, but when the waters fall the river is not navigable, and his sole dependence then will be upon the railroad.

No dependence can be placed on the Federal accounts of what is going on within the Confederate lines. The stories brought in by dequite untrustworthy, but it is quite possible that the Confederates may, as indicated, be making preparations for retreat. Richmond has been very elaborately fortified, and JEFFERSON DAVIS may think it more expedient to econo-mire his men by allowing them to fight behind for tifications than to waste them in opera-tions in the open field, either at Freder-icksburg or any other point on the read to Richmond. Richmond has been made a strong place, and can hold out for a considerable time, but its importance is rather political than strategic. If it should fall, preparations have been made for a retreat on Lynchburg, a place of great natural strength, and further inland. So, again, General Braco, if hard pressed, is provided with a place of retreat at Chattanooga. So, also, the defenders of Charleston and Savannah, if forced to retreat or Charleston and Savannan, it forced to retreat inland, have a refuge at Atalanta—a place on the highlands of Georgia, and important as being the seat of the principal powder manufactory in the Confederacy. But, though it is quite possible that all these preparations for retreat are being elaborately organised, it does not necessarily follow that organised, it does not necessarily follow that an obstinate resistance will not be made at the

The weak point in the Federal' postion is the shortness of the time within which the next decisive blow must be struck. Any victory, even if achieved, must be vigorously followed up in order to make it tell. Yet there is carcely time for extended operations. Our news comes down to the end of March. By June a quarter of a million of soldiers whose t me is up will return to their homes. The conscription, we are told, will not commence till June, or more probably July, and some time will then be required to arm, drill, and organization. ise them. If therefore the Confederates can weather out the next two months without losing much ground, they have a prospect of a short reprieve, so far as 1-nd operations are concerned, till the new conscript army can be marshalled

GLENE COPPER AND READING ROOMS.—Some philanthropic gentlemen residing at the Glebe have noticed, with considerable regret, the absence of any inatitution at the Glebe wherein the working men of that locality could find the advantages of physical refreshment and mental recreation after the toils of the day, and, in order to supply the desideratum, they have taken suitable premises in Farmantia-street, opposite the Sugar-works, which were opened as coffee and reading rooms yesterday evening. The rooms are supplied with the best English and colonial newspapers, and a good selection of periodicals—some we observed that are not usually found upon the tables of more pretentious institutions. There are also conveniences for draughts, chees, and bagadelle in the newly opened rooms, but all gambing is strictly probabilised by the rules. OOMNEMORATION OF THE MARKIAGE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.—The Catholics of St. Benediet's parish, are determined not to be behind their fellow citizens in testifying their loyalty on the above occasion. On Sunday morning, the Rev. Father Corish announced from the altar, that a meeting of the parishners would be hald in the boys' schoolroom, on that evening, for the purpose of considering the best made of commemorating the svent.
The rev. gentleman, in a few remarks he made, observed that it had always been a distinguishing principle in the Catholic Church to honour those whom God, in his providence, had placed to rule over us, and that loyalty to the throne had always, and in all countries, been a characteristic of the Church, and, as in this country we edjoy a great smount of religious liberty—perhaps more than in any other country in the world, it was the duty of all Catholic to take part in the celebration of this holiday; he therefore hoped that there would be a large attendance of the Sin.—Having read with astoni-hunant the address proposal to be sent to Fresident Lincoln by a few residents of Sydney who profess to admire his proclamation of freedom to the Southern slaves, I take the liberty of sending a few extracts from a London newscaper, bearing upon the subject; which, if they are not open to contradiction, show planly what a hollow mockery such an address would be, and (if he did not regard it as a lumsy boax) with what laughter in the sleeve it would be ecoved by Mr. Lincoln. Hoping that such a disgrace to the colony may be averted by a timely consideration on the part of the proposers, I proceed to quote the newspaper remarks:—

"As if to show, in the most unmisticable way, that a servile war and not negre emancipation is the very thing he wants, New Orleans and Norfolk, and Portsmouth, and all other Southern towns and districts, now in the possession of the Northern forces, are expressly excepted from the ecope of the measure, and are ideft precisely as it this proclamation were not issued. It is only where he has not the power of centrolling the passions of the negro population that he gives every slave leave and license to marder, in accessary self-defence, every master who keeps him in bondage.

"The Executive Government of the United States, including the military and naval authorities thereof, will do no act or acts to represe them, or any of them, in any effort they may make for their actual freedom.

"There need be no mistake, then, about the matter; there is no mistake, except on the part of brawling fanatios who choose not to use thoir eyes. President Lincoln tells templating different from what it is—n war measure, designed to realise that threat of service in purious many make for their actual freedom.

"There need be no mistake, then, about the matter; there is no mistake, except on the part of brawling fanatios w war Power' might instantly emancipate by a stroke of the pen "If, Mr. Editor, the gentiomen who so admire Mr. Lincoln's proceedings can any ser satisfactorily these comments, let them proceed with their proceed with their proceed with their hot, let these seek some other person to comparation to that one who has, by his proclamation, included humanity, and procedured the name of freedom.

Allotments fronting Derwent-street and Arausca-terrace.

The rapidity with which the whole of the allotments already leased have been built upon, clearly shows the great value of property in this locality, and also that the system of 99 year? leases, and the great advantages arising therefrom, are being better understood and acted upon. The tenure is almost equal to a freebold, while it enables the gurchaser, at a small annual real; to secure the land, and expend his capital upon improvements, which will at onesyield him A PROFITABLE RETURN POR HIS MONEY.

See of limited capital, or small means, would do well to consider the very great indocuments which a lease for so long a period presents to then in particular. With narrly all the advantages of a freehold, they are enabled to sequire A REALLY VALUABLE PROPERTY, by payment of a trifling yearly result.

Beyond doubt one of the very FINEST AGRICULTURAL and HORTICULTURAL ESTATES in the AUSTRALIAN COLONIES.

ORT and CO. have received instructions from the Honorabie A. W. Scott, Eq., to sell by public suction, at Newcastle, on an early date, of which due notice will be given,

The whole of the

ASH ISLAND,
comprising an area of 2841 ACRES, with many miles river frontage to the River Hunter, distant only 43 MILES FROM NEW CASTLE, and including the homestead, with gardens, orangery, extensive cultivation, grass and other lands, and a large number of farms, many of which are enciceed, cleared, and have convenient buildings enciosed, cleared, and have convenient building upon them.

This splendid property has been recently unset correlating surveyed and subdivided, and it will be sold in farms to suit all cleases of purchasers. The object of the present suit all cleases of purchasers. The object of the present preliminary advertisement is simply to announce.

the fact that it will abscribe be subscribed to making compani-

TO THE AGRICULTURAL INTEREST

the fact that it will shortly be submitted to public competition, in order that all who may be on the look-out for housesteads, may avail themselves of an opportunity, the like of which has never before been presented to them.

Among the many claims which the Ash Island Retate possesses, entitling it to be looked upon as one of the finest estates in the colonies, the following few are sufficient for the present purpose.

1. THE SOIL is composed of RICH ALLUVIAL deposit, and is capable of producing, to say extent, large and profitable crops of ALL KINDS OF FRUITS, the ORANGE Being pre-eminent—of MAIZE, LUCBENS, OATS, ALL KINDS OF VEGETABLES, and COTTON—the growth of the latter being particularly vigorous.

vigorous.

2. The FACILITIES OF WATER and LAND CARRIAGE are as great as could possibly be wished for. The serate has a vasi extent of frontage to the river Hunter, with any extent of deep water, to enable vessels to load direct from the spot. On the other hand, the GREAT NOETHERN RAILWAY passes along the adjacent river bank, at the back of the estate, and secures the most perfect land carriage.

3. 178 PROXIMITY TO NEWCASTLE (the second great chipping port of New South Wales), to East and West Maidand, Raymond Terrace, and Morpeth, and parsicularly.

West Maidand, Raymond Terrace, and Morpeth, and parsicularly

TO THE NUMEROUS COLLIERIES, ensures a ready market for all kinds of produce—further secured by the facilities for export to all the markets and seaports of New South Wales and the adjacent colonies.

4. THE COAL.—From various experiments at different places, made by careful boring, coal of excellent quality has been invariably found, showing that the seam underlying the whole island would probably prove a good working one, and, from the position, well adapted for inexpensive slipmont, no engineering difficulty existing, and deep water frontage along the river banks.

5. The Estate is NOT LIABLE TO BE PLOODED

—a very material feature to all who have had any experience of farming in the colony.

With these few facts before them, all who are in want of a farm, or home for their families, are invited to avail themselves of the forthcoming opperantly.

Full particulars will be shortly published, including terms and day of sale.

AYE and BUTCHART have received instructions to submit to public compatition, on the day and at the place above-mentioned, at 2 p.m., That well-known station on the Darling River, to which it has a frontage of nearly 40 miles; with an estimated area of about 800 square miles of salt bush country and sand hills, the very plak of the whole river, abounding with wild clover and grass, and pronounced by one of our most eminent recent explorers to be superior to any country he saw between the Darling and Carpentaria.

The best proof of the fattening quality of the country is the fine condition in which the fat cattle always arrive at the Melbourna yards, not withstanding a journey of 500 miles. The best country passesses the inauenne savanange of being abundantly and permanently watered by five or six lakes, including the Menindis and Cawndills Lakes, the latter 16 miles back.

The best judges admit that the grasing capabilities of the run are not over-estimated at 80,000 sheep, and 4000 cartle. Great improvements have been effected on the station recently. At the Home Station is an eight-roomed brick house, with galvanized iron roof and verandah, detached kitchen, with bedroom, good undergressed short, men's hut of substantial sawn slabs, good stock-yard, woolshed in ocurse of erection; a strong well arranged slab building, with floor for sizteen shearers, and good lever press to work inside the building, sheep-yards, and horse paddock, one mile square, now being enclosed with posts and rails.

At the Kangarce Well Station is a slab but for overseer, shepherd, and stores, good well to water 4000 cheep, stock-yard, and five out-stations with yards, from which sheep are now running. On the river are three sheep-yards, and es the 'lakes are five lambing yards.

At Becher Rohu Lake out Station - substantial two-roomed hut, double stock-yard, cow and killing yards, and stree to work 2000 cattle. All the stock-yards are dits the river to work 2000 cattle. All the stock-yard

In all probability there will be 21,000 sheep on the station before it can be delivered to a purchaser.

35 metal station horses, including an entire cert-horse 18 working beliechs, with drays, certs, hersees, and 300 new hurdles.

Annual rest and secomment, £533.

Terms—One-third ceah, residue beering eight per cent. interest, at one, two, and three years, secured in the neutle manner.

The quantity of gold dust delivered by the Recorts during the month of May, from our several gold-fields, amounted to 34,414 ounces. For the corresponding month of 1862 the re-ceipts were 55,880 ounces. There is, thereforc, a decrease in the yield of the month of 21,466 ounces, or 62 per cent. The falling off in our gold returns still continues, and may be in our gold returns still combines, and may be traced to the small quantities received this year from the Lachlan and Burrangong Goldfields as compared with last year. From the other gold-fields, however, with the exception of Braidwood, the returns are rather above the average, and from the Northern Gold-fields average, and from the Northern Gold-neighter is a fair increase. During the first five months of the year 1862, the amount of gold-dust delivered by the Escorts was 260,178 ounces; while for the same period of the present year the receipts have only reached 192,731 ounces, which is a decrease of 67,447 ounces, or 34 per cent.

The subjoined table will show the amounts delivered by the Escorts, from the Western, Southern, and Northern Gold-fields, during the first five months of the years 1862 and 1863 :

Farull and Nesle.

In the adjourned case of Regina v. Dunn. for attending and witnessing a treach of the peace, Mr. Roberts, for the prosecution, stated that, as this was a case which appeared to rest upon a question of identity, and having instituted some inquiries which led him to the belief that the pointe officer might have been metaken as to the presence of the defendant, he desired, with the permission of the Bench, not to press the charge. The Bench stated that it was their childen from the commencement of the proceedings that the picke officer had acred under an erroneous belief. They encurred in the application. Mr. Dunn applied for copy of the depositions.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT]

MAY 297H.—The supposed notirous bushranger, Henry Gibsor, alias "Parker," against whom a charge of "suspection of highway robbery" had been preferred by detective Coward on the 8th of April, and also a further charge of attacking (in company with others) a station near Marengo on the 26th March last, belonging to a Mr Broughton, on which latter occasion it appeared by the evidence that the supposed bushranging party in question had simply demanded breakfast, which had been accordingly prepared for them by the immutes at the but, when they lift, bidding each other "good day"—and who had been committed from this place for trial at the next Goulburn Circuit Court on both of the supposed serious offences, the full particulars of which appeared in your averal lesues of the 17th and 27th April—suddenly made his appearance in the town in propriae persona, to the no small astonishment of many persona. I have been given to understand that the Attorney-General had directed his discharge, not, however, without good grounds for so doing, as on reading over the depositions there was nothing upon which he could file a bill—either this are por an acquittal could slone have been anticipated, and no doubt a very proper course had been taken by the Attorney-General and no torry great advantage in his favour, insumed as he was speedily deprived of the sweets of liberty before he had cipyed many hours of fresh sir, having been arrested on a warrant issued by the police magistrate, and trought before him or Tuesday, charged with "having on or about the month of March, and divers other covasions, harboured, aided, and assisted certain notorious bushrangers, to wit, Juhnny Gilbert, Johnny O'Meally, and Ben Hall, contray to the statute." Sir Frederick Pottinger, who sat on the beach, and not only acted in the capacity of a procentry, but appeared in the witness-box against the prisener, to prove that he knew the prisener before the court, had frequently seen him at the might be remanded to Fortes, whe

RESPONSIBILITY OF MAGISTRATES.

To the Editor of the Breald.

Sin.—The paragraph in your issue of the 23rd instant, beaded "Responsibility of Magistrates." to of the greatest importance to the public. If Mr. Justice Milford's railing be correct then is the community without any remedy against erronsous—I feer in many cases, wilfully erroneous—ecovicitions, and the ninetectal century Englishman is dependent on the magistracy for his liberty. That decision ameunts to this—that unless the statute under which a conviction is had, or an order made, provides a remedy by way of appeal, there is no means by which a person sentenced to imprisonment can be liberated, except by prohibition, which, by obtaining, he precludes himself from seeking preuniary referes.

The, for instance, a man in the far interfor sentenced to three months imprisonment for selling figures without a license; he may have to send fifty or one hundred miles for an autorney, who, upon looking into the cases, finds the conviction grossly erroneous; the necessary allidavits are prepared and a writ of prohibition applied for. The rule nisi is granted, and course on in due or uras for argument, when, as in mest cases, the conviction is held bad, yet "under the circumstances" the Judges reluxe to give costs: and in the meantime the applicant, has served his three months to which he was originally sentenced, or a greater part of the term, and it has cost him perhaps £2) or £30 in expenses! And what then? Mr. Justice Milford says there is no remedy by way of civil action against the magistrates. If this is really the state of the law the sconer it is amended the better; otherwise, to apply for a prohibition to any other than a most important case, is only to court the infliction of a greater tipury to the applicant.

The case I have suggested above is not. I regret to any, and exceptional one. I doudd instance very many, and I infliction of a greator injury to the applicant.

The case I have suggested above is not I regret to say, an exceptional one. I could instance very many, and I have often been as great loss to understand why the Judges persist in refusing costs signist magistrates. It may be well to say the superid magistrates devote a large portion of their time gratuitously to magisterial duties, and that it would not be fair to mulet them in costs; but how about the poor fellow who should never have been convicted, independently of his costs and trouble? Is he to have no sympathy—no remedy?

dependently of his costs and trouble! Is he to have no sympathy—no remedy!

In any event this reason cannot hold good where the convictions have been had before paid magistrates. They are gaid well for performing their duties, and the public have a right to suppose that they possess the requisite knowledge for their due performance, and if they have been appointed without any regard to their legal attainments—or if they are so indulent, or. I say it advisedly, so ignorant that they will not or cannot learn, then it certainly cannot be justice, but, on the contrary, the very acase of injustice, to make any innocent man, who may be unfortunate enough to be convicted by them pay and be punished for their ignorance without affording him a remedy.

When the conviction is clearly wrong, and when the applicant has been put to great trouble and expense in gotting the cast/iction quashed, he certainly ought to be allowed the coats he has incurred, or if the Judges see reason to refuse costs. "under the circumstances," the public ought to know what those "circumstances," the public ought to know what those "circumstances," are that they may judge of their weight; and certainly if Judge Milford's construction of the Act be the true one, it should be amended with ut a day's unnecessary delay.

Monat Instrumes of the Fine Arts—I despair of having sufficient resson to believe that the moral influence of the fine art is very grea. We know that there is an incongruity in vice, and a moral fitness in virtue, which the taste that a study of these erits communicates, can perceive, but if this be the mere unsided perception of the understanding, it is, also ! to frequently counteracted by the impulse of the will: the inclinations are of on a strong as to overpower the dictates of the judgment. The finely-tuned ear of a Byron, and his cultivation of mind, dil not counteract the immoral tendency of his writings. May I, then, if I study the fine arts, study them only as a means to an end!—Her. Joseph Sortaine.
